The village of Osmotherley lies on the edge of the North York Moors National Park at the point where the rugged Cleveland Hills meet the more gentle rolling Hambleton Hills. This is an area with a history that stretches back to the early days of human exploration and settlement. A history that has left its mark right up to the present time. Here the walker is presented with a mixture of landscapes to explore. The rugged heather moorland, the rolling grassland of the About the Author Keven Shevels. Kev has been involved with outdoor sports since his school days when participation in the Duke of Edinburgh award revealed the beauties of hill and dale and resulted in him walking or running through the countryside of the North.
